

You Can Help Prevent Prescription Drug Abuse

Prescription drugs are the most common substances abused by America's youth. Young people trying drugs for the first time are more likely to try prescription medications than marijuana.

Much of these abused prescription drugs come from the medicine cabinets of family members and friends.

Help decrease the chance that those you love start using drugs. Throw out your prescription medications if you don't need them, especially pain medications.

The best way to dispose of prescription medications is with a medication drop box. Medication Drop Boxes are safe secure boxes, located in police stations.

The Rx Drug Drop Box works just like a mailbox. Anonymously drop your pills and patches into the box.
